Letter of Recommendation for Barb Schrage

I am delighted to be writing this letter of reference for Barb. I met Barb in early 2007 when our professions first crossed paths and since then we have been solid colleagues, contacting each other routinely for added insight and recommendations in training content.

Barb is a unique individual as she is gifted as being a flexible trainer and facilitator by seizing “in-the-moment” instances to exploit a learning opportunity. Barb also worked with our organization in customizing portions of her standard training fare. This took a level of effort which involved first an understanding of our organization’s process as well as our culture before modifying the curriculum. It’s these types of situations which demonstrate Barb as an enthusiastic innovator, always seeing new and creative ways of doing things. Barb’s work is marked by personal optimism and commitment to the people with whom she works.

Barb is a rare combination of big picture thinking, attention to detail and inviting personality that is endearing. One of her finest attribute as it applies to work is her ability to follow through and complete tasks on a consistent basis.

I have written many letters of recommendation before but I am most excited to write this letter as Barb offers so much. Barb’s addition of talent to any organization would prove to be a valuable asset.

Sincerely,
